Hi Fall Students

If you are interested in working with an organization that promotes clean water and safe food especially from the consumers view point, then this internship could be the one for you. We had a student there for the first time during spring quarter and she gives this internship a strong recommend. She worked primarily researching food safety issues in China and assisting in different campaigns. She also attended congressional hearings on FDA issues and helped to organize Earth Day. This is just a sampling. There are many opportunities available. If interested, please see their website (www.foodandwaterwatch.org) for more details and application instructions. This is a competitive organization, so apply sooner rather than later. If you don't hear from them in a reasonable time, let me know and I'll follow up. Thanks. - sl
