Summer Internship 2008: The Rendon Group

Description: This is a paid, non-administrative position and TRG interns work side by side with our professional staff drawn from politics, government, media, and journalism. Interns will assist in projects by conducting extensive research, composing memoranda, attending meetings, and providing media analysis and monitoring. Interns spend the bulk of their time working on one specific project but also have the opportunity to assist in other projects in both the public and private sector. As part of the internship, TRG now provides students with a "crash course" on strategic communications including a series of lectures/discussions led by CEO John Rendon.

Qualifications: We are looking for undergraduate students who will be entering their junior or senior year of school next year. We are looking for someone who is reliable, comfortable with deadlines, and who possesses excellent research, writing, and computer skills. Our ideal candidate is self-motivated and is comfortable working both independently and as part of a team. Must be up-to-date on current events, knowledgeable on the background of foreign affairs and able to work on several projects at once. Knowledge of Internet search engines required (Google, Lexis-Nexis, etc.). Foreign language proficiency is preferred, and fluency in reading Arabic is highly desired.

About: The Rendon Group is a strategic communications firm based in Washington DC, working to provide media analysis, public relations support, and crisis management consultation in both the public and private sector. The Rendon Group's expertise is based on 25 years of political and communications consulting experience, a proven approach to media analysis, and demonstrated success implementing imaginative and multilayered public relations initiatives. To date, we have worked in 91 countries planning and managing strategic and tactical communications programs across Africa, the Americas, Asia, Europe, and the Middle East. The global experience of our seasoned staff maximizes the precision of our analysis and the value of our counsel. The Rendon Group office in Washington, DC, operates a 24/7 media monitoring watch-center in support of both clients and TRG personnel working on location worldwide. TRG assembles special teams, selected specifically for their skills, dedicated to working directly with each client to achieve strategic goals and objectives. Website: www.rendon.com

To Apply: Please e-mail your resume, cover letter, and writing sample to Karin Drinkhall at: kdrinkhall@rendon.com by 9 March 2008. Please hold writing samples to three pages. Writing sample can be an excerpt from a longer paper if necessary. We are looking for a 35-40 hour per week commitment. We have five positions available, but due to the high volume of applicants, we will only contact those candidates whose profiles fit our immediate needs. Internships will begin in early June 2008.
