

Washington Summer Program Internship #32 - Fair Chance

Hi Summer Students

This internship just came in (see below). I spoke with the coordinator and it sounds like a very substantive opportunity. You would be doing a lot of research and writing, so those skills are paramount. This is especially good for those of you interested in non profit and community service based organizations. Please let me know if you apply. Thanks. - sl

Hi Sara,

Thanks so much for chatting with me about a new internship opportunity with Fair Chance (www.fairchancedc.org)! Please find the description below.

As I mentioned on the phone, this is a new opening and promises to be a great opportunity for a self-starter interested in gaining writing/communications experience, researching and coming to know the community services that serve the neediest communities in Washington, DC.

I hope some of your students may find this interesting!

Best,
Sarah

(see attached document)

Description:

Fair Chance builds the capacity of nonprofit organizations that improve the lives of children and youth living in Washington, DC's most underserved communities. Fair Chance partners with promising community-based nonprofits serving children, youth and families in Washington, D.C to improve their capacity, strengthen their sustainability, impact and success. Since 2002, Fair Chance has helped 35 partner organizations raise more than $1.5 million in new funds, increase the number of youth they serve by an average of 25% and expand their programming and impact!
